

Trouble in the Hen House

Life is huge. Life is great. Life should be everything you expected and a little bit more.

Expect it! Ask for it! And take nothing less. Nothing in life is, or should be, mediocre. Don't let anyone take advantage of you, or treat you badly. Happy counts. We live in one of the most beautiful places in the world and there is nothing half way about it.

Because of where and how I live I am a homebody, and I love it. My wonderful daughter is here, amazingly responsible, diplomatic and kind for her tender years. My dogs are currently lazy, and beat in the heat. Darn coyote got into the hen house when said canines were sleeping in the cool of the house-the coyotes got one hen, but my dogs did wake up and chase the sneaky predators off before any real henhouse holocaust. Crafty coyotes came back for seconds the next day- daring dogs chased them away. Those lovable mutts do so earn their keep.

My horses, however, have been slopin' on the job lately. The mares are out to pasture, getting fat 'n' sassy, hoping my broken hand never heals. Heh. I have a surprise for them-their life of leisure is soon over- hurray! I hope to be back in the saddle by the long weekend. I can hardly wait!

I work from home; my friends are here, (some of the most fabulous people in the world) and so everything I could ever ask for is all here-here in my own backyard. My days of wanderlust and travelling are over. I'm home.

Over the years, so many of my customers have become more than just customers-my friends as well, shouting their support for this little paper, keeping me moving forward, even through the toughest times, making me laugh, sharing stories, and making me smile with successes and testimonials you have had using my little paper. Wow. I appreciate you-all of you. The testimonials are amazing—how much everyone loves the paper, how well the live load website is working, how items are flying out the door. Way cool.

Thank you so much for supporting me and keeping the Bargain Hunter alive. You're the BEST!

Enjoy your summer!
